Reynolds Community College does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, family medical history or genetic information, military service, national origin, parental status, political affiliation, race, religion, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), sexual orientation, or any other non-merit based factor. Reynolds offers programs under its open admissions policy. Admission to select vocational programs is based on a separate application process that is non-discriminatory. For the full policy and a list of select programs, visit reynolds.edu.
Reynolds Community College offers several ways for you to get started on your college career while you’re still in high school. To take advantage of these sweet opportunities, students should begin preparing in middle school (or junior high):

- Take Algebra-I in middle school or take the highest math level you can.
- Take any other high school level classes offered at your middle school.
- Attend information sessions for these programs early.
- Talk to your school counseling office to discuss the options available at your high school.

College Classes at Your High School

Dual Enrollment
This program allows high school juniors and seniors to take college-level classes at their high school that fulfill both high school and college requirements. Classes will transfer to college or prepare you for a career. Talk to your guidance counselor to see if your school participates in Dual Enrollment with Reynolds.

College Classes Online

General Education Certificate
This program allows high school juniors and seniors to complete 33 general education credits – equivalent to the first year’s worth of college credit. Classes are offered in person at the high school or at the Reynolds Goochland Campus and fulfill both high school and college requirements.

College Classes at Reynolds

Concurrent Enrollment
Interested in taking a class that your high school doesn’t offer? High school juniors and seniors can take Reynolds classes online or at one of three campuses. Unlike Dual Enrollment, these classes will count only toward college credit.

Reynolds Advance College Academy
Join a group of students who will earn a two-year associate degree and graduate high school at the same time. You’ll want to apply for this program in the eighth grade. Ask your counselor if your high school offers this program through the Reynolds Advance College Academy.

Just for Goochland & Powhatan

College Connection Academy
Juniors and seniors at Goochland and Powhatan High Schools can earn a General Education Certificate equivalent to a year’s worth of college credit. Classes are offered in person at the high school or at the Reynolds Goochland Campus and fulfill both high school and college requirements.
